

Glens Falls – Queensbury Historical Association

Luisa Craige-Sherman's presentation on the fashion and manner's of mid 18th century America was both highly entertaining and informative. While dressed in period garb, she shared anecdotes and details associated with a series of hands-on examples of the clothing styles worn by women of different socio-economic classes. Surrounding her were mannequins outfitted in 18th century clothing, plus displays of numerous hats, gloves, jewelry, and shoes, which members of the public were encouraged to explore after she concluded her talk.

Luisa's presentation style was very engaging, and her content quite fascinating. People attending our event wanted even more, and many stayed after to ask her questions and to take a closer look at the items she had brought along to show. It was a great program that I would not hesitate to recommend to other groups.

Tim Weidner, Exec. Director
Chapman Historical Museum